Cert 12, £17.99, Blu-ray £22.99) ★★★★★

American folk singer Sixto Diaz Rodriguez released two albums in the early 1970s but, in the face of commercial and critical indifference, was dumped by his label. In the years since, rumours have swirled that he committed suicide onstage. This engrossing documentary charts the efforts of fans, a record-shop owner and a writer to discover his true fate.
